

Calling All Information Industry Experts!

AIIP's Annual Conference Call for Proposals Is Open

The Association for Independent Information Professionals invites you to contribute your ideas, case studies, experiences and expertise at the 2015 AIIP Annual Conference in Irvine, CA, April 16-19.

The due date for proposals is Friday, October 17, 2014.

Our conference encourages communication and idea sharing on top trends in the wider information industry, networking and mentoring, entrepreneurial best practices, business tips and so much more. It's a leading source of professional development for info consultants, "liberated" researchers, info-entrepreneurs – all those who are pursuing an independent business practice.

2015's Theme – Destination Irvine: Learn. Plan. Grow.

We encourage the submission of program sessions related to themes of Plan and Grow, which might include such topics as: latest business trends, communication skills, project management or planning, tools or technologies for planning and growth, research approaches, case studies, how-to's for business or individual growth, growing via value-added skills or services, as well as other practical solutions.

This call is primarily for presentations of approximately 45-60 minutes.

AIIP is an essential resource, and a leading voice, for its hundreds of info-entrepreneur members around the world, across a variety of fields and subject areas. Members have access to a variety of business-building resources, industry partner discounts, warm collegiality and information sharing, skill-building professional development, one-to-one mentoring and tools to support them in every stage of their careers and businesses.

To submit a proposal, please include the following:

- Title (or working title)
- Brief description of your proposed session (<150 words)
 - Include 2-3 key ideas or lessons for attendees to take away
- Please also include in proposal:
 - Why your session would appeal to our members/attendees
 - If you have any co-presenters
 - Brief bio for you and any co-presenters

Please submit proposals via email to: office@aiip.org
